ALLIES DISARM AUSTRIA OFFICIAL TRUCE TERMS

Washington, Nov. 4---Austria-Hungary has been absolutely disarmed by the allies. Her armies have been reduced to their pre-war basis. Her navy is rendered powerless, while fifteen of her modern submarines, together with the most formidable part of her fleet, pass at once under United States and allied control.

She is compelled to surrender all prisoners of war without reciprocity. From the position of a strong and powerful enemy the dual empire by the terms of the armistice, which went into effect today, is transformed into a disarmed nation, powerless to renew the struggle even should she so desire.

These terms were made public this afternoon by the State Department. In every way they provide for complete and absolute surrender.

The Austrian armies on the western front must be withdrawn and demobilized. Those within the nation must be reduced to their pre-war status.

All German troops must leave Austria-Hungary within fifteen days or be interned. The allies can use all means of transportation, rail, water or highways and occupy such strategic positions they consider necessary.

The defeated armies immediately must abandon to the allied forces all war materials now on occupied territory, including coal.

The fifteen submarines taken are the newest of the fleet, and all others are to be disarmed and dismantled. In addition the United States and allied navies will take over three battleships, twelve torpedo boats, one mine layer and six Danube monitors, while the remainder of the navy is to be concentrated at a designated point under allied guard. The Danube fortifications are to be dismantled, all aircraft concentrated, and the Pola docks and arsenals surrendered to the allies. The complete text of the armistice agreement as made public here is as follows:

MILITARY CLAUSES.

One—The immediate cessation of hostilities by land, sea and air.

Two—Total demobilization of the Austro-Hungarian army and immediate withdrawal of all Austro-Hungarian forces operating on the front from the North Sea to Switzerland.

Within Austro-Hungarian territory, limited as to clause three below, there shall only be maintained as an organized military force a (1) reduced to "pre-war effectiveness" (effectiveness?)
Half the divisional, corps and army artillery and equipment shall be collected at points to be indicated by the allies and United States of America, for delivery to them, beginning with all such material as exists in the territories to be evacuated by the Austro-Hungarian forces.

Three—Evacuation of all terriories invaded by Austro-Hungary since the beginning of the war. Withdrawal within such periods as shall be determined by the commander-in-chief of the allied forces on each front of the Austro-Hungarian armies behind a line fixed as follows:

From Elbe-Ulm to the north of the Sclavo it will follow the crest of the Rhetian Alps up to the sources of the Adige and the Brennero, passing thence by Mount St. Gothard, the Brennero and the heights of Cols di Fodda, Podolasek and Idria. From this point the line turns south, crossing Mount Tödiach and meeting the present frontier Carni Alps. It follows this frontier up to Mount Tarvis and after Mount Tarvis the watershed of the Julian Alps by the Col of Predil, Mount Slavetti, the Tricorno (Tergu) and the watershed of Cols di Fodda, Podolasek and Idria. From this point the line turns south-east toward the Schnerberg, crosses the whole basin of the Save and its tributaries. From Schnerberg it goes down toward the coast in such a way as to include Varsus, Matignola and Vojosca in the evacuated territories.

INCLUDES ISLANDS.

It will also follow the administrative limits of the present province of Dalmatia, including to the North Liassica and Trivulcia and to the south, territory limited by a line from the (semi-grand?) of Cape Plavice to the summit of the watershed eastward, so as to include in the evacuated area all the valleys and watercourses.

All of East Boston to Send "Smiles Across the Sea" Wednesday

MILES OF SMILES!
Thousands of feet of faces!
And all to make the hearts of our beloved American boys "over there!"
Greater Boston relatives of the valiant lads who are making the world safe for democracy are being filmed to be sent overseas at the rate of approximately three miles of film a week.
Great enthusiasm pervades every locality where the film is scheduled to be made and preparations to be "in the picture" occupy the attention of thousands. Everybody who has a loved one in France these glorious days rejoices at the thought of the soldiers beholding the dear home faces on the screen in the social centres behind the lines on the frontiers of freedom.

The FOURTH INSTALLMENT of "Smiles Across the Sea" will be filmed at Wood Island Park, East Boston, on Wednesday, November 6, at 2 p. m.
EAST BOSTON RELATIVES of boys in the service are hereby invited to march before the camera 15,000 strong next Wednesday. "Smiles" relatives residing in Wards 1 and 2, embracing Local Exemption Boards 1 and 2, will assemble at Wood Island Park at 2 o'clock.
Bring the whole family! Bring a sign or banner containing a personal message to your boy in France. Signs like "Hello, George," "Here's Mother," etc., will help make the picture the more inspiring when thrown on the screen to be seen by the boys now in the trenches.

"Close-ups" will be made of "war-bridges" and war-babies whose daddies were called away before their babies were born.
CHARLESTOWN and SOMERVILLE soldiers' relatives will be filmed on SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 9, at 2 p. m., at the Charlestown Playground, Sullivan square.
SOUTH BOSTON relatives will be filmed at Marine Park, City Point, on Sunday, November 10. This installment will include Wards 9 and 10 and Draft Divisions of the same numbers.
More SOUTH END, DORCHESTER and ROXBURY "smiles" will be filmed at the William Austin Playground, corner of Massachusetts avenue and Proctor street, on Wednesday, November 13. This group will include relatives residing in Wards 11, 12 and 43.

CAMBRIDGE and ARLINGTON dates and places for the taking of more "Smiles" will be announced on Wednesday.
Other appointments, at the rate of three a week, will successively include in the "Smiles" film all soldiers' relatives in Boston and suburbs.
Read the Boston American every day to learn when your district will be filmed.
There is no expense connected with the taking of the pictures. All costs and responsibility will be assumed by William Randolph Hearst and the International Film Service. Mr. Hearst's great moving picture organization.
If the weather is inclement Wednesday's pictures will be taken on Thursday, Saturday's pictures on Monday, and Sunday's film on the Tuesday following the advertised dates.

BLACK SEA PATRY ORL

The opening of the Dardanelles, the "Key to the Near East," will unlock for the Allies a number of most important doors.
The fifty-mile waterway, only one and one-quarter miles across at its most narrow point, adds now a new chapter to its age-old history. For the strategic strait has figured in literature and folklore as far back as the ancient Greek legend, which told the tale of Helen, daughter of Athens and Sparta, who was drowned in the strait, which was given the name "Helle" in honor of her.
The name Dardanelles, which was the first to be listed, harkens back to the Trojan War, the ancient city of Troy in Asia Minor, on the eastern shore of the passage, about nine miles southwest of old Abydos.
Abydos, by the way, was the home town of Leander, who swam once too often across the strait to visit his bride, Hero, the sister beauty, and, like Helen, was drowned.
The strait was a classical haunt from the start and it lived right on to its final reputation when the world's greatest naval reformer, Lord Nelson, accomplished his long overdue.

CLEARED OF MINES.
The Dardanelles has been cleared of mines to make the passage safe for Allied war vessels. This task includes, of course, making equally safe the waters of the Sea of Marmara and of the Bosphorus, which connects the Marmara with the Black Sea, and into the latter the passage offered the Allies may be summarized as follows:
Disposal of the German (formerly Turkish) fleet in the Black Sea.
Open the Black Sea to Allied use.
The naval blockade of the Bosphorus and the Dardanelles.
Step forward of food and oil from the Black Sea to the East.

FLEET IN ORDER.
As to the German Black Sea fleet. It is regarded as having been put in order by the Russian aerial command. It is credited with including seven pre-dreadnoughts, two cruisers, a dozen submarines and about twenty-five war craft of other types.
The question is already raised whether the German crews on these vessels may be sent to prevent the strait by the Allies or force their way through. The latter is the more probable, it is probably short of ammunition.
There may be some vessels available for the German fleet in the Black Sea. Four cruisers have been under construction at the naval base at Nikolaiyev, where the Bug River flows into the Bay of Odessa. One of these four was near completion at last accounts.
The Danube empties, through its triple mouth into the Black Sea, on the Romanian shore, about 250 miles from Constantinople. The great river, the second largest in Europe, gave strength to the after-prospect of the Danube as a waterway.

WAT SAIL UP DANUBE.
A member of the British War Cabinet, Mr. Balfour, said last week there is nothing to prevent the Allied fleet from going into the Black Sea and up the Danube to Germany's back door. If the Germans are going to defend the strait, they must divide their remaining forces between the western front and the back door, at which we shall soon be knocking.
Whether the Danube waterway is opened to the Allies, the strait will be able to relieve Romania from the eastern side and the Allies will be able to relieve Romania from the western side given by the removal of Austria-Hungary from the Danube.

BIG FILM DEAL FOR XMAS BY HEARST NEWS

Several Big Motion Picture Concerns to Serve Public as the International
After December 15, the date on which the contract between the International Film Service Company, Inc., and Pathé Exchange, Inc., on the Hearst-Pathe News expires, the name of Pathé will be eliminated from this famous reel and it will resume its original name of the Hearst International News.
Negotiations of great magnitude, which have been pending for the last few days, came to a head today, and contracts of such significance were signed as can only culminate in the greatest news reel this country ever has, or ever will see.

"The first issue of the Hearst International News, under its newly christened old name, will come out on December 25," said C. E. Zittel, vice-president and general manager of the International Film Service Company, Inc., in an interview, "and as our Christmas greetings to the country at large we are able to announce as a Black Sea and up the Danube to Germany's back door. If the Germans are going to defend the strait, they must divide their remaining forces between the western front and the back door, at which we shall soon be knocking.

The Truth About the I. and R.

JOSEPH WALKER told the TRUTH on the floor of the Constitutional Convention—before it became necessary to issue eleventh-hour advertisements in the hope of stemming the tide of common sense that has set in against the I. and R. scheme—when he said:
"There is no chance to amend; and that is one of the weaknesses" may I say of the Initiative.

JOSEPH WALKER also told the TRUTH in the Convention when he said:
It is essential, if we are to have an I. and R. at all, that the FIRST TEN MEN WHO FRAME THE MEASURE, FINALLY SHALL BE IN CONTROL OF IT UNTIL IT GETS ON THE BALLOT!

You may find it difficult to believe that JOSEPH WALKER made those statements in view of the advertisements he published Sunday. We do not ask you to take our word for it. READ THE STATEMENTS FOR YOURSELF on pages 307 and 308 of Vol. II. of the Convention Debates.

The I. and R. advocates quote a few sentences from pages 13, 14 and 15 of what they are pleased to call our "Red-Ink" pamphlet, and try to prove us guilty of misrepresentation.
We ask you to read not only ALL of pages 13, 14 and 15, but to read the WHOLE PAMPHLET, so that you will have ALL the FACTS upon which we base our indictment of the I. and R. scheme. We say especially on pages 12, 13 and 14, on which we invite all voters to READ THE FULL TEXT OF THE PROPOSED I. AND R. AMENDMENT, so that they could judge for themselves whether we had told the TRUTH about it.

WE REPEAT THAT INVITATION!
We say in our pamphlet: "The 'Private Ten' have the power of drafting laws for final action and forcing them on the ballot." "Neither the people themselves nor anyone representing them would have power to change a syllable." The I. and R. advocates call those statements "misrepresentation." We say they are the TRUTH and we REPEAT THEM!

We admit—and say so in our pamphlet, page 27—that the Legislature could amend an initiated Constitutional amendment by a THREE-FOURTHS vote. But it is obvious that the provision for such amendment is pure camouflage, for a THREE-FOURTHS vote to amend a scheme painted in popular color and pushed by sensational newspapers would be impossible to obtain. BUT WHO CAN AMEND INITIATED LAWS?
We say the Attorney-General would have power to AMEND initiated laws. The TRUTH is that the Attorney-General would have power simply to help put in shape the mere words of the measure proposed by the Private Ten.

URGENT! ANY ENEMY GO TO DARDANELLES

How Enemy Warned England.

I have already told you that the British had taken possession of the island, and that the Dardanelles expedition he now apparently saw a Napoleonic opportunity. As we were going the deck he stopped a moment, looked at me earnestly and said:

"I shall go down in history as the man who demonstrated the vulnerability of England and her fleet. I shall show that her navy is not invulnerable. I was in England a few days before the war and discussed England's position with many of her leading men, such as Asquith, Churchill, Haldane. I told them that their course was wrong. Winston Churchill declared that England could defend herself with her navy alone, and that she needed no large army."

Why Enemy Told Churchill.

"I told Churchill that no great navy could tell that did not have both an army and a navy. I found that Churchill's opinion was the one that prevailed everywhere in England. There was only one man who disagreed with me, that was Lord Roberts. Well, Churchill is now showing his feet. I have been able to show him that his navy can do all that he said it could do. Now we'll see. Yes, too, should have a large army," said Enver, referring to the United States.

"I do not believe," he went on, "that England is trying to force the Dardanelles before Russia has asked her to. When I was in England I discussed with Churchill the possibility of a general war. He asked me what Turkey would do in such a case and said that, if we took Germany's side, the British fleet would force the Dardanelles and capture Constantinople. Churchill is not trying to tell Russia—he is carrying out the threat made to me at that time."

Enver spoke with the utmost determination and conviction; he said that nearly all the damage inflicted on the outside forces had been repaired, and that the Turks had methods of defense the existence of which the enemy little suspected. He showed great bitterness against the English; he accused them of attempting to "betray" Turkish officials, and even said that they had instigated attempts upon his own life. On the other hand, he displayed no particular friendliness toward the Germans. Wagner's overbearing manner had caused him much irritation, and the Turks, he said, got on none too well with the German officers.

CARED LITTLE FOR GERMAN.

"The Turks and Germans," he added, "have nothing for each other. We are with them because it is our interest to be with them. They are with us because that is the interest of Germany. They will not stay with us unless Germany just so long as that helps Turkey."

Enver seemed much impressed at the close of our interview with the intimate personal relations which we had established with each other. He apparently believed that by the great Enver, the Napoleon of the Turkish Revolution, had subordinated in discussing his nation's affairs with a mere ambassador.

"You know," he said, "that there is no one in Germany with whom the Kaiser talks as intimately as I have talked with you today."

We reached Pandras about two o'clock. Here Enver and his suite were sent ashore and our party started again, our boat being pulled out to the shore and about the night on board. All the evening we could hear the guns bombarding the fortifications, but there, reminders of war and death did not affect our spirits. Turkish hosts. The occasion was for them a great loss.

In the morning we started again.

therefore, the allied fleet had a decided superiority, the Queen Elizabeth alone having them all practically at her mercy.

At that time the European and American papers were printing stories that the train loads of shells and guns were coming by way of Russia from Germany to the Dardanelles. The facts were that the train loads of shells and guns were coming by way of Russia from Germany to the Dardanelles. The facts were that the train loads of shells and guns were coming by way of Russia from Germany to the Dardanelles.

AMMUNITION SCARCITY.

That is, non-ammunition-piercing projectiles useful only for fighting land forces had been brought from Adria and were being repacked in Hamidie at the time of my visit, but these were small in quantity and of little value in fighting ships.

I lay this stress upon Hamidie because this was the most important fortification in the Dardanelles. Throughout the whole bombardment it attracted more of the allied fire than any other position, and it inflicted at least 10 per cent. of all the damage that was done to the attacking ships.

It was Anadolu Hamidie which, in the great bombardment of March 19, 1915, the French battleship, and which in the course of the whole attack disabled several other ships. All its officers were German and 10 per cent. of the men on duty were from the crews of the Goeben and the Breslau.

Within which the automobile we sped along the military road to Pandras, passing on the way the ruins of the Meudut. The Turkish battery was an absolutely Turkish battery. Hamidie was German. The guns at Dardanelles were somewhat more modern than those at Hamidie—they were the Krupp model of 1885. Here the was stationed the only new battery which the Germans had established up to the time of my visit. It consisted of several guns which they had taken from the German and Turkish warships lying in the Bosphorus. A few days before our inspection the Allied fleet had captured the Bay of Dreuski and had submitted Dardanelles to a terrific bombardment, the evidence of which I saw on every hand.

CHURNED UP REBELS.

This sounded like a passing joke, but the statement was literally true. Pandras, where this emplacement is located, was one of the famous cities of the ancient world. In Hamidie it was part of the principally Turkish. Fragments of capitals and columns are still visible. And the shells from the Allied fleet were now blowing up many relics which had been buried for thousands of years.

KILLED BY SHELL.

Poor Hassan's "future" came two days afterward when the Allied fleet made its greatest attack. One of the great bombardments of March 19, 1915, the French battleship, and which in the course of the whole attack disabled several other ships. All its officers were German and 10 per cent. of the men on duty were from the crews of the Goeben and the Breslau.

LOCATION SEEMED IDEAL.

The location of Anadolu Hamidie seemed ideal. It stands right at the water's edge, and consists of it did itself of one gun, even completely sweeping the Dardanelles. Walking upon the parapet, I had a clear view of the strait, and Kum Kale, at the entrance, about fifteen miles away, stood out conspicuously. No warship could enter these waters without immediately coming within complete sight of her guns. Yet the fortress itself, to an unprepared eye like my own, was not particularly impressive.

The parapet and traverses were merely mounds of earth, and stand today practically as they were finished by the French engineers in 1917. There is a general belief that the Germans had completely modernized the Dardanelles defenses, but this was not true at all. The guns defending Port Anadolu Hamidie were more than thirty years old, all being the Krupp model of 1885, and the rusted exteriors of some of them gave evidence of their age. Their extreme range was only about nine miles, while the range of the battleships opposing them was about nine miles, and that of the Queen Elizabeth was not far from eleven.

The figures which I have given for Anadolu Hamidie apply also to practically all the guns at the other effective fortifications. So far as the advantage of range was concerned, I saw on every hand.

PRESIDENT WILSON'S APPEAL TO THE AMERICAN VOTERS

The opponents of Walsh and Long in Massachusetts, Jameson and Reed in New Hampshire and O'Shaunessy in Rhode Island are in a cabal to repudiate the President in the eyes of the world.

French Critics Pay Tribute to Courage of Dashing Yanks
By International News Service.
Paris, Nov. 4.—Huge praise today from French military critics to the brave American troops in the Argonne-Meuse sector, north of Verdun, who have smashed through three successive lines of German defensive positions.

"Truly, America can be proud of her soldiers fighting between the Argonne forest and the Meuse River," writes Colonel Fabry. "The army, after forty days of the stiffest resistance, advanced across three powerfully fortified lines of German positions on a front of twenty-one miles. The Americans are now twelve kilometers from Sedan and eighteen miles from Metz."

"The Yankess showed remarkable courage and self-sacrifice and extraordinary endurance. Three organized German lines from Laon to the Meuse approached each other across the river, making a solid fortified dike (fortified miles deep)."

The French point out that the victory was enhanced by the youthful audacity of the Americans and the resources of the American staff in the battle problems involved.

REPUBLICAN BUGLE CALL TO THE COLORS

Every loyal republican should go to the polls tomorrow and vote the ticket from top to bottom. Every republican with red blood, who wants to see this war finished in the good old American, republican way—with UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER as the only basis for peace—should say so at the polls tomorrow by standing with the party of Lincoln, Grant, Garfield, McKinley, Roosevelt, Taft and Lodge.

The republican party in Congress stood by Wilson when his own party deserted him on War with Germany and on the selective draft. This has been a War of the American People. Wilson wants to change it into a DEMOCRATIC war.

Every bit of speed that America has developed—every big effort in moving men, munitions and supplies to the Western front—has been due to the efforts of the republican minority in Congress who have put patriotism above party but who refuse to put Wilson above Lincoln.

Read what Coolidge and Weeks have to say and then vote! Your duty is at the polls in Massachusetts, tomorrow.

BY CALVIN COOLIDGE

My conception of public duty is to face each problem as though my entire record in life were to be judged by the way in which I handled it—to keep always in touch with the folks back home—in be firm for my own honesty of opinion, but to recognize every other man's right to an honest difference of opinion.

The duties of Governor of the Commonwealth are not intricate or burdensome if a man looks upon their discharge as a public function and not as a personal prerogative.

If chosen to be Governor, I shall try to conduct the duties of the office so as to merit the sincere endorsement of men of fair minds in all parties. I can promise nothing more. I would not deem myself worthy of your support if I promised anything less.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

BY JOHN W. WEEKS

My record in the Senate is known to the voters of this State. It is a record of which I am proud. I have dodged no votes. I have evaded no issues. I have given the best service that was in me and I have accepted the unanimous vote of my party to be its candidate for re-election.

I will not change my views on public questions in order to get votes. I will change my views only when I am convinced that conditions warrant changing them. I am not a political opportunist. I try not to be a political weather-vane. While I regret that I do not always agree with all the voters, I cannot complain that they do not always agree with me. That is their privilege.

I believe in the most vigorous war program that America—with her unlimited resources—can develop. I have never allowed that belief to be side-tracked by Congress or by the Executive department. I BELIEVE IN THE UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER OF THE KAISER. If re-elected, I shall continue to do my work as an American, a republican and a citizen of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

JOHN W. WEEKS.

You owe it to your Country, your state, your party, and the boys under the colors, to go to the polls tomorrow and vote the straight republican ticket, Coolidge, Cox, Weeks, and every candidate right down the list.

Let's make the world safe for patriotic Republicanism as well as for partisan Democracy. Don't be a slacker on election day! Be a 100 per cent republican, tomorrow and go to the polls before you go to business!

Yours for an overwhelming majority,

GEORGE A. BACON,

Chairman.

Workingmen of Massachusetts

Read the Truth About the Proposed I. and R.

The Initiative is a plan by which any ten private citizens with money to hire petition-hawkers can frame any sort of measures, camouflage them as they please to deceive the voters, put them on the ballot in spite of the Legislature, and force the people to vote "Yes" or "No" upon them. The people must swallow them whole, or not at all. They have no power to change a single word!

The Referendum is a scheme by which any private ten with money to secure signatures can suspend the operation of laws passed by the Legislature and compel the people to vote upon them!

The private ten who operate this law-making machine may be mere tools for secret, predatory interests. Yet they have all the power of a Constitutional Convention and practically all the power of a Legislature—the power to frame laws and Constitutional Amendments for final action!

The people have no power left but a veto power—a sort of "take-it-or-leave-it" privilege which compels them to dance attendance every year upon private groups often with purchased petitions in their hands!

Money is the motive power of this device. It costs money to get signatures. It costs many thousands of dollars for meetings and publicity to push measures before 650,000 voters.

Most of us have no money for such purposes.

Selfish interests would find it easy to get funds to push bad measures or to oppose good measures.

The I. and R. therefore, is not for the common people. It is a powerful weapon for wealthy individuals and wealthy interests.

It means the rule of the pocketbook.

This I. and R. Resolution Appears on the Ballot as QUESTION NO. 1

We urge every man who wishes to prevent the control of law-making in Massachusetts by the power of wealth to go to the Polls next Tuesday and

Read This Carefully If You Would Vote Intelligently on the INITIATIVE AND REFERENDUM AMENDMENT Tomorrow

WHAT THE INITIATIVE AND REFERENDUM DOES:

It will enable the voters to compel the passage of a law or a constitutional amendment they want which a corporation-controlled or otherwise unrepresentative legislature persists in blocking. It will enable the voters to veto a law passed by such a legislature which the voters do not approve of.

Necessity for the Initiative and Referendum

What President Wilson Has Said:

The methods of our legislatures make the operations of political machines easy, for very little of our legislation is formed and effected by open debate upon the floor. Almost all of it is framed in the "offices," discussed in committee rooms, and passed without debate. Bills that the machine and its backers do not desire are smothered in committee measures which they do desire are brought out and hurried through their passage. It happens again and again that great groups of such bills are rushed through in the hurried hours that mark the close of the legislative sessions, when everyone's vigilance is weakened by fatigue and when it is possible to do secret things.

When we stand in the presence of these things and see how complete and sinister their operation has been, we cry out with no little truth that we no longer have representative government. If we felt that we had genuine representative government in our State Legislatures, no one would propose the Initiative and Referendum in America. They are being proposed now as a means of bringing our representatives back to the consciousness that what they are bound in duty and in mere policy to do is to represent the sovereign people whom they profess to serve, and not the private interests which creep into their councils by way of machine orders and committee conferences.

It must be remembered by every candid man who discusses these matters that we are contrasting the operation of the Initiative and Referendum, not with the representative government which we have in theory, but with the actual state of affairs. (Address at Kansas City, May 5, 1911.)

What Ex-President Roosevelt Has Said:

I believe in the Initiative and Referendum, which should be used to destroy representative government, but to correct it whenever it becomes misrepresentative. In the great majority of cases it is far better that the work of legislation should be done by experts chosen to perform it. But when the men thus delegated fail to perform their duty, then it should be in the power of the people themselves to perform it.

PRESIDENT LOWELL OF HARVARD says, speaking of the French Chamber of Deputies in particular but of ALL REPRESENTATIVES IN GENERAL:

Of course the deputies do not wield this immense influence to forward their own private ends alone. They are representatives, and must use their position for the benefit of the persons they represent. But whom do they represent? The people at large? No representative ever really does that. So far as he is actuated by purely conscientious motives he represents his own ideas of right, and for the rest he represents primarily the men who have elected him, and to whom he must look for help and vote in the next campaign. In some countries this means the party and those classes that hang on the skirts of the party and may be prevailed upon to follow into line—Gov. & Parties—Vol. 1, p. 132.

PROFESSOR LECKY

Even in the British Parliament, with the responsibility of a great empire, there is no such deliberation and knowledge on the part of its members as is assumed by the opponents of the Initiative and Referendum to be characteristic of those idealized American legislatures which really do not exist. For example, W. L. Lecky, the famous British historian and member of Parliament, wrote to a friend.

"In the House of Commons one gets quite accustomed to having to vote almost nightly on matters one does not understand."

What Elihu Root Says About Invisible Governments:

Certainly Elihu Root is not a socialist or a radical. Then read what he said only a few years ago when presiding over the Constitutional Convention in New York, speaking of the government of New York he said:

"What has it been during the forty years of my acquaintance with it? The government of the constitution? Oh, no. . . . The rule of the State during the greater part of the forty years of my acquaintance with the government has not been any man authorized by the Constitution or by the law, and, after, there is throughout the length and breadth of this State a deep and subtle and long-continued resentment at being governed thus by men not of the people's choosing." This charge was not successfully disputed either in the Constitutional Convention or outside.

What the Boston Herald and Traveler Says:

CONDITIONS IN MASSACHUSETTS.

What control by political parties means to Massachusetts has been eloquently proclaimed by the Boston Traveler and Boston Herald and the Boston Journal, the leading newspaper opponents of the Initiative and Referendum. The statement quoted was deliberately made within four years in the Boston Herald by Mr. James C. White, its political editor, who has spent years at the State House reporting the Legislature. He was quoted and endorsed by both the Boston Journal and the Boston Traveler. It is as follows: "The Republican State organization for the past twenty years has been run chiefly as a business adjunct of big business. The State officers have been sold in its interests to the highest bidder, and, even more to be regretted, it has also conducted a steady traffic in immunity for some interests and favorable laws for others. Public service corporations bought reservations from attack, insurance companies bought lenient legislation and the veto power on certain measures, and the manufacturers bought voters in the labor law. There was no cash consideration piled across the counter at the time, as in some of the older States, but inasmuch as at the beginning of each year these trafficking gentlemen representing big business contributed almost all the money used by the organization for its maintenance, they were in the position of men who, having paid in advance, were simply awaiting delivery."

Former Speaker of the House of Representatives JOSEPH WALKER says, from the fullness of his years of experience in our Legislatures:

"Not one man in a hundred in the Legislature reads the bills which he votes to enact into law."

History of the Initiative and Referendum

ORIGIN IN SWITZERLAND

Switzerland was before the adoption of the Initiative and Referendum the most misgoverned country in Europe. The corporations and political bosses absolutely dominated the nation and all the 23 cantons or states except three of the smallest forest cantons where the town meeting system existed. The Initiative and Referendum was devised as a measure to correct this condition. How completely the Initiative and Referendum has regenerated Swiss public life is shown by the statement of Prof. James Bryce, the distinguished British historian and statesman, once British Ambassador to America, that "Switzerland is now the most successful democracy in the world."

This reform spread to all the 23 cantons or states except Fribourg. Read what Prof. L. J. Johnson of Harvard says of politics in Fribourg:

She has still the unperfected or "pure" representative system characteristic of our American states and cities and of the old times in the rest of Switzerland. This brings with it, there as here, bosses and all that boss-rule implies. The legislative body is nominated by the boss, elected by the people and managed by the boss. Prominent citizens are usually kept in line by a share in the plunder for themselves, or for their churches or philanthropies, or by fear of loss of favor with the two chief banks, both creatures of the boss. There is bribery, extravagance, mis-ordination of the general interest to private business, the heaviest per capita cantonal debt in Switzerland, and the public apathy which naturally follows widespread hopelessness.

ALREADY ADOPTED IN TWENTY-ONE AMERICAN STATES.

The Initiative and Referendum has already been adopted in twenty-one states of our Union after exactly the same kind of opposition as is now being made to its adoption here. Indeed it is most extraordinary to note that its Massachusetts opponents have not discovered a single new objection to it. Experience with the operation of the Initiative and Referendum in these states has refuted and confounded all those now state objections, as its Massachusetts opponents well know.

HISTORY IN MASSACHUSETTS.

The agitation for the Initiative and Referendum has gone on in Massachusetts for 20 years and gradually increasing power until during the last ten years it has become apparent by many tests that a great majority of our voters favor it.

In five out of the last eight State elections the Governor elected publicly advocated the Initiative and Referendum in his campaign before the voters, and in six out of eight last elections the candidates for Governor, who received a majority of votes were advocates of the Initiative and Referendum. Every man who was a candidate for Governor, elected or defeated, of all parties, four years ago, is an advocate of the Initiative and Referendum. Three out of the last five speakers of the House of Representatives are advocates of the Initiative and Referendum. The vote in the House of Representatives on the Initiative and Referendum is as follows:

	Yeas	Nays
March 14, 1901.....	69	74
May 5, 1902.....	114	64
May 5, 1903.....	153	23
April 7, 1904.....	107	103
April 12, 1905.....	89	78
March 18, 1908.....	88	114
March 29, 1910.....	94	78
April 21, 1910.....	112	102
June 27, 1911.....	125	75
July 16, 1912.....	138	73
May 14, 1913.....	142	73
1914.....	141	85

Thus in nine out of ten years up to 1914, a majority, in every case substantial majorities, and in some cases overwhelming majorities, approved the Initiative and Referendum.

Since 1914 the advocates of the Initiative and Referendum, despairing of getting the necessary two-thirds of the House, determined to have a Constitutional Convention and ceased great effort in the Legislature.

The Constitutional Convention of 1917-18, one of the most representative and notable deliberative bodies which has ever sat in Massachusetts, after one of the longest debates in American political history, passed the Initiative and Referendum amendment by a decisive non-partisan vote, although two-thirds of its members were Republicans.

Not a Partisan Measure

The Initiative and Referendum is not a partisan measure. Fourteen of the twenty-one States which have already adopted it are Republican.

The Massachusetts Constitutional Convention which has drawn the Initiative and Referendum Amendment and recommended it to the voters was two-thirds Republican.

The Democratic State Conventions for ten years have endorsed it. The present Republican candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, Speaker Cho, has publicly declared for the Initiative and Referendum. Attorney-General Atwell endorses it. Republican Congressman Fuller endorses it and has heavily contributed toward the expense of promoting it. The entire Democratic ticket this year, including Walsh and Long, endorses it.

How It Works Where It Has Been Adopted

SWITZERLAND

Ex-President Emil E. Frey of the Swiss Republic, formerly Swiss Minister at Washington, makes the following statement: "The Swiss people are greatly attached to the Initiative and Referendum. It has been the greatest factor in the last generation in uniting the Swiss people into one nation. It has prevented any gulf coming between the citizens and the government. You might just as well talk of turning the Swiss Republic into a monarchy as to expect the people to abandon these fundamental rights."

UNITED STATES

It has worked so successfully in every state that has adopted it that no one, not even the boldest corporation, has ever openly advocated its repeal. One or two attempts of the corporation lobby to do so indirectly were discovered and overwhelmingly voted down. Thus it is every year spreading from state into state.

There is not space enough to quote opinions from all the states, but we quote a few from distinguished citizens of those states in which the operation of the Initiative and Referendum is most vigorously attacked by the opponents of this great reform in Massachusetts.

CALIFORNIA

U. S. Senator Hiram Johnson, Republican, says:

We have ended that old practice—when anybody wanted anything from the Legislature, they came to somebody somewhere in a hotel or bar-room or a financier's office—and now they go to the Legislature itself. We have restored the government to the people and conscience and hope to the government.

U. S. Senator Phelan, Democrat, says:

In California we have long since ceased to debate the wisdom of the Initiative and Referendum, and under this system we have a real democracy. At one time a political machine, controlled by selfish and corrupt interests, dominated the entire State, dictated legislation and named office-holders. Now the people control their government. The abuses of the older system were infinitely greater than any possible abuse which may arise under the more popular system. The people make mistakes, possibly, and yet they are singularly few, but their mistakes lean towards popular rights rather than against them. It may be said of this reform that "even its failings lean to virtue's side." The people have shown a wise discrimination in voting for statutes and in rejecting amendments. The entire State is made a debating ground and the citizens are educated in public affairs and, in the realization of this ideal, we have, at last, a government of the people. JAMES D. PRIELAN.

OREGON

United States Senator George E. Chamberlain, chairman of the Senate Committee on Military Affairs, and former Governor of Oregon:

The Initiative and Referendum has been a success in Oregon. Its detractors within the State are men whose selfish schemes have been blocked by the people. Its critics outside the State are men who do not want to see the people of their own State secure the power which the people of Oregon have and are exercising. The people of my State are satisfied. This is proved by the fact that they have repeatedly rejected by overwhelming majorities at the polls changes in the system which would impair its efficiency.

Senator Lane, Mr. Chamberlain's colleague in the U. S. Senate, also writes agreeing with Senator Chamberlain and so does Ex-Senator Bourne, and so also does Governor Wilbycombe, who concludes his letter to us as follows: Under the Oregon system the people have the first and last say in things politically, and I am confident that under no circumstances would a return be made to the old order.

WASHINGTON

As to the working of the Initiative and Referendum in the State of Washington, Mr. C. B. Kagle, one of the great farm leaders of the United States and Master of the Washington State Grange, wrote as follows:

At the close of our last legislative session, one of the ablest constitutional lobbyists in this State, a lawyer, said to me, "We can beat you in the Legislature, but when you get out in the open before the people you have no trouble in beating us. I don't like that kind of politics."

Does it Impair Representative Government?

NO. Read what President Wilson and former President Roosevelt say in the first column of this page.

U. S. Senator Poindexter, Republican, of Washington, says:

The Initiative and Referendum, whether applied to a legislative act or to a constitution, is merely a piece of governmental machinery by which these unquestioned powers of the people are exercised. It is used to be argued against this measure that it proposed to abolish the Legislature and to establish a pure democracy, in the sense of doing away with a republican or representative form of government. The bogeyman has long ago been found to be merely imaginary. The Legislature exercises its powers as of old and the representative and republican forms of government flourish in greater vigor than ever. The reason for this is that the Initiative and Referendum is not a substitute for the Legislature, but merely the means by which the people exercise a supervision and control over their representatives. After the Initiative and Referendum has been in operation for a sufficient length of time to demonstrate the fact that the people have the democratic power of the people, expressed in a formal and regular way at constitutional elections by legal votes, can correct and remove abuses, legislators and public officials realize their responsibilities to the people, public opinion exercises a real influence upon them, and the consequence is that there is but little occasion for their actual use—the mere availability of these measures being sufficient.

Of course, legislators use their reason and judgment, but special private interests do not control the powers of government as of yore.

Read also what Senator Johnson of California says above.

Educational Value of I. and R.

Not the least of its merits is its tendency to promote public spirit and a new sense of power and direct responsibility among voters.

Dr. Haynes, one of California's most distinguished citizens, says of the election when the much-discussed California ballot was used:

The people in this election took their responsibilities seriously. The discussion of the measure began in the newspapers, at home, and in business establishments, when the petitions first began to circulate.

For many months before the election these measures were given large space by speakers on both sides on the programs of the men's organizations and women's clubs of the State. More than 100 meetings discussing them were held in the schoolhouses of Los Angeles alone and hundreds more in the private homes of the city. This was going on throughout the State. Finally, on the day of election husbands and wives together, with their sample ballots in their hands, marked after weeks and months of study, replied to the polls and registered their decisions.

Richard W. Montague, a leader of the Oregon bar, paints the same picture of the effects of this great reform upon public life in Oregon.

“When the Big German Drive Began Last March Premier Lloyd George Said:

“It is a race between Wilson and Hindenburg.”

“WHO IS WINNING?”

The armies of the Kaiser are still fighting—will you take a chance on postponing their surrender by refusing to back up the Commander-in-Chief of our Army and Navy?

REMEMBER, VOTERS, “When you go to the polls on TUESDAY, you will not be voting for Republicans or Democrats as individuals but for the leaders who will control them when they go to Congress.”

“THE ISSUE IS LEADERSHIP!”

Whose leadership do you prefer?

“that of Senator Lodge, Senator Penrose and Colonel Roosevelt, who would dominate a Republican Majority and block the President, or the leadership of Woodrow Wilson?”

“What is the difference?”

The Republican leaders are on record against President Wilson's fourteen war aims which have been applauded by opinion throughout the world, and constitute the basis of an enduring peace. Our President's fourteen terms do not help the selfish classes in any country but they favor all the masses of people. They seek to put an end to WAR AND THE THINGS THAT BREED WAR.

“With Colonel Roosevelt” denouncing the whole basis of these peace terms and Senator Lodge rejecting all the fundamentals NOW, what could the country expect the Republican leaders to do with a peace treaty if they came into control of Congressional Committees?

Having condemned such a treaty in advance they could not ratify it without stultifying themselves.

“By their speeches,” Colonel Roosevelt and Senator Lodge have served notice on the country that they will not approve a peace treaty based on the Wilson principles of peace.

“THIS IS THE ISSUE which is now squarely before the country. The people have to decide whether they will follow President Wilson or Colonel Roosevelt, whether they want a peace of liberalism and justice or a peace of imperialism, standpatism, militarism, that leaves all the old causes for war exactly where they were before we undertook to root out militarism and the rule of peace and war itself.”

“You voters must decide these issues for yourselves ^{and} for your children.”

“President Wilson stands for WINNING THE WAR AND DESTROYING MILITARISM AND KAISERISM.”

“He insists ‘that adequate guarantees be given and taken that national armaments will be reduced to the lowest point consistent with domestic safety.’”

“The President stands for a league of nations. This league will protect nations, large and small, and permit every people desiring freedom to determine their own destiny.”

“Everybody wants this except those who will profit by the older order.”

“The most momentous diplomatic conference in all history is now being held in France. Show the world, by your vote of confidence in President Wilson, that he speaks as President of the United States for a United Country.”

“Never mind what political party you are ordinarily affiliated with.”

THE BIG QUESTION IS:

“Are you behind your President in the most critical moment of the world's history?”

Austria-Hungary, Bulgaria and Turkey have crumbled. Germany is next.

LET US STAND BEHIND OUR LEADER so that we may complete our victory and obtain a conclusive and enduring peace.

DO NOT VOTE TO HAMPER THE PRESIDENT, as surely would be the result if one branch of the government is Republican and the other Democratic. President McKinley in the Spanish-American war asked for a united nation through the medium of a Republican majority, and was supported in this appeal by former President Harrison, Colonel Roosevelt, Senator Lodge, Senator Penrose, as well as Democratic voters—by the people of the country without respect to party lines.

VOTE TO SUSTAIN THE PRESIDENT who has appealed to the patriotism of Republicans as well as Democrats to consider country above party—to say whether the people shall have the leadership of President Wilson, or of his political opponents.

BACK UP YOUR PRESIDENT who is recognized everywhere as the true spokesman of liberals and progressives throughout the world. Now that the hour when the triumph of President Wilson's program for the liberation of the world is at hand, shall our President be politically discredited?

Do not vote to embarrass the President. Hold up his hands. Vote to sustain him by electing Democratic Senators and Representatives to speak for you.

Bismarck and the Peace of 1871

By Morton Birge

(Concluded)

NEGOTIATIONS for the peace treaty ratifying the Versailles preliminaries were begun at Frankfurt-on-the-Main, Germany, on May 10, 1871. They occupied five days.

Bismarck's determination to protect the German interests to the utmost and to secure rigid guarantees were emphasized in such statements as the following:

Germany, if she wishes, can either revoke the treaty or hold you to an exact execution of the obligations thereby imposed on you. An entirely new situation has arisen, and must be taken into consideration. We do not suspect the good faith of the French government, but we fear it does not possess the power of surrounding the threatening obstacles.

Your Brussels plenipotentiaries systematically plien the negotiations, which are to result in a definite peace, and endeavor to modify the conditions of the preliminary treaty to your advantage, and are in no way concerned to hasten your tasks.

Police Duty
In the light of present reports of various protective measures that the allied commanders might include in any armistice terms, the extra guarantees demanded by Bismarck from the French plenipotentiaries at Frankfurt is of added interest. The Iron Chancellor told them:

"We ask further from you, as a necessary condition for the safety of our troops, the right to control the approaches to the gates of Paris and to patrol the hitherto neutral zone between our lines and your walls. It is merely a question of exercising a police duty which you cannot deny us, and which may prevent annoying irregularities."

Again Bismarck warned the French plenipotentiaries that the government of the French republic "does not possess today a same power of fulfilling the engagements as it did on that date" (the Versailles preliminaries).

Still harping on this guarantee point Bismarck added: "Unless France is able to give us guarantees which will protect German interests with greater certainty against any future disturbances hindering the peace of France, we must secure them for ourselves."

On Occupation
On the question of occupation, Bismarck deemed that a matter for Germany alone to decide, saying: "We demand that we alone have to decide when the withdrawal of our troops is opportune, not in order to leave them an unnecessarily long time on your soil, but so that we may not be forced later on to lead them there again. Moreover, the Emperor's orders are quite definite on this point, and we can make no concessions."

A final bit of irony, in the light of German atrocities and vandalism in invaded France and Belgium, was Bismarck's Teuton protest against the Paris plenipotentiaries. He addressed the representatives of the French government thus:

"You are not fighting a party, but a band of robbers (the insurance companies), who have broken the law upon which the whole of civilization rests."

"CAN WE LOOK ON WITH FOLDED ARMS WHILE PUBLIC BUILDINGS AS WELL AS PRIVATE PROPERTY ARE DESTROYED?"

In the wake of wars generally comes unfortunate social conditions. Crippled soldiers become charges of either the government or private charities. Those who return whole generally return to their former positions. The government is co-operating with the committee in its efforts. The Federal Board of Vocational Education is offering training for crippled soldiers. The Interior Department plans to throw open large tracts of lands for soldier farmers. Sam Crane Expects Him to Sell
Braves to Curley Syndicate and Then Buy Out Ebbets

By SAM CRANE.
New York, Nov. 4.—Ex-Mayor Curley of Boston is said to be negotiating with Jim Gaffney for the purchase of the Boston National League club.

It is also reported that Gaffney has hopes to buy the Dodgers from Charles Ebbets and the McKewen Brothers.

It would be a good thing for the Braves to be owned by those people. A syndicate of Boston bankers, friends of Percy Hainchinson, owned the Braves for two years, but failed to make them pay.

Unfortunate circumstances brought about the sale of the club, but the cause for the poor season this year, the team was all set to start as most of its best players joined the club.

No other team suffered as much. With the revival of the same sort of year, as now seems to be very probable, the prospects for a successful season in the future look bright, and Mayor Curley will make no mistake in getting possession of the club.

WHY HAUGHTON FAILED.
Mayor Curley would be popular as the president of the club. He knows baseball thoroughly and also loves the game for the game's sake.

The fact that Haughton did not seem to get in touch with either the baseball public or the team was the reason why the club during his administration failed to succeed.

Professional baseball and the professional player never did appeal to Haughton. They were not up to his college idea of sportsmanship.

Mayor Curley, at the other end, is a "good mixer" and has every personal characteristic for the making of a model owner.

No home owner had owned a Boston club since the old triumvirate of Dodge, Carr and Huntington.

John I. Taylor, who owned the Boston American League club, was a Boston man, and when he was elected he made it his most popular job of the two and made money year after year. No "foreign" owner of a Boston club had ever been popular, even when the club won a pennant.

GAFFNEY A LIVE WIRE.
Gaffney, with his great wealth and shrewd business methods, love and knowledge of baseball, would improve the prospects of the game in Brooklyn immediately and would add strength and importance to the National League.

He was a power in the organization before when, owner of the Braves, and as the new owner of the Dodgers would be in line for the reconstruction and readjustment that the game has needed for the past few years.

I hope to see, for the general good of baseball, both deals go through. And while I am always ready to say "wouldn't it be worth considering" to make a place for a new owner in baseball by electing him president of the National League, I have it in my mind to make an ideal executive office.

CALL UP HIS STRING OF MOLLS.

Ten Years Ago in Sport

POLK COMMISSIONER BINGHAM having temporarily throttled athletics in New York, the Philadelphia Jack O'Brien-Sam Langford bout was suspended indefinitely. They met about three years later, much to the regret of one of them. Which one?

KID KILBERRY is negotiating for the purchase of the Portsmouth Virginia State League club.

A WOLFGANG has been matched to fight Bubblers Robinson ten rounds before Tom McCarty's Pacific A. of Vernon, Cal., November 13. Wolfgang will be conceding Robinson some eight or ten pounds. (Was he able to do? ad was a bear at that time, but ten pounds is some hands.)

JIMMY BRITT of San Francisco defeated Johnnie Summers of England in a ten-round bout at San Francisco, but Jimmy was not a contender for the Britton. The bout, which was an inter-continental boxing show, was the first since the war.
